Chapter 2: The Ideas That Shape America

What Students Should Learn from This Chapter

- The seven key American ideas: liberty, self-rule, limited government, individualism, the American dream, equality, and faith in God.
- The arguments that surround each of them.
- How to explore the essential question: How do ideas affect politics?

Outline

I. Nation of ideas
  A. Ideas are the root of American independence as articulated in the Declaration of Independence
  B. American exceptionalism—the view that the United States is unique, marked by a distinct set of ideas such as equality, self-rule, and limited government
  C. Seven Big Ideas
    1. Liberty
    2. Self-rule (often called democracy)
    3. Individualism
    4. Limited government
    5. American dream
    6. Equality
    7. Faith in God
  D. Americans rarely agree on meaning of ideas, constantly debate

II. Liberty
  A. Freedom: the ability to pursue one's own desires without interference from others
    1. Most often-invoked American value
  B. There are two different views of what liberty means
    1. Negative liberty
      a) Freedom from constraints or the interference of others
      b) Society's responsibility to make sure that others do not interfere
      c) Limits government action
    2. Positive liberty
      a) Freedom to pursue one's goals
      b) Individuals cannot really be free if they lack the basic necessities of life
      c) Government action is a way to help give all people a legitimate chance to achieve their dreams
  C. Franklin D. Roosevelt and the Four Freedoms, 1941
    1. Freedom of Speech
    2. Freedom of Religion
    3. Freedom from Want
    4. Freedom from Fear

III. Self-rule
  A. The people rule
  B. Two types of government by the people
    1. Democracy
      a) Citizens participate directly in making government decisions.
      b) Exemplified through New England town hall meetings
      c) Still exists in many states
        1) Referendum—voting directly on an issue
        2) Initiative—the public can propose a new law or amendment to the state constitution

3) Sunshine provisions—laws that require all government meetings be open to the public

2. Republic
   a) A government in which citizens rule indirectly and make government decisions through their elected representatives
   b) American government consists of elected representatives organized to put a check on the majority.
3. America balances these two ideals: democratic republic

IV. Limited government
- A. Outside government was distrusted even when Americans were English colonists.
- B. Conservatives
  1. Reduced government spending
  2. Personal responsibility
  3. Traditional moral values
  4. Strong national defense
- C. Liberals
  1. Cultural diversity
  2. Government programs for the needy
  3. Public intervention int eh economy
  4. Individuals' right to a lifestyle based on their own social and moral positions
- D. Americans say they do not like government and then demand government address problems they are concerned about
- E. Suspicion built into Constitution
  1. Checks and balances on power
  2. Limits to what Congress can do
- F. During times of crisis people turn to the government for action
- G. Democracy and limited government, two American ideas, frequently clash

V. Individualism
- A. The idea that individuals, not the society, are responsible for their well-being
- B. Social democracy—government is responsible for everyone's well-being and policies are to assure all are comfortably cared for
  1. Emphasize community
  2. Members of society are responsible for one another
  3. Government a source of mutual assistance
  4. Based on solidarity
- C. Individualism – people and their families responsible for their own welfare
  1. Limited government, faith in economic markets, emphasis on negative liberty
  2. Part of American history
     a) America was an opportunity for European immigrants to get ahead in a New World and open frontier.
     b) America was too big and diverse to form a sense of solidarity.

VI. The American dream
- A. The idea that if you are talented and work hard, you can achieve financial success
- B. Common people cared about getting rich, so policies to enable wealth creation became a function of government
- C. Challenges
  1. Policies have failed to support common people but only encourage the wealthy to stay rich
  2. Policies promote materialism

VII. Equality
- A. The idea that every citizen enjoys the same privileges, status, and rights before the law

Access Complete Test Bank for By The People Debating American Government 4th Morone

B. Types of equality
    1. Social—same status in society (no rigid social boundaries)
    2. Political—same political rights and opportunities (e.g., voting)
    3. Economic equality—small differences in wealth between citizens. True anymore?

C. Equality of opportunity vs. equality of outcome
    1. Equality of opportunity—every American has an equal chance to win economic success.
    2. Equality of outcome—government should be a tool to ensure greater economic equality.

VIII. Religion

A. John Winthrop of the Puritan colony called it a "city on a hill."

B. America is still far more religious than other European societies.
    1. Many colonies started as religious communities.
    2. Extensive religious diversity

C. Religious debate has extensively impacted governmental action.
    1. Different interpretations of the First Amendment
    2. Religion has inspired Americans to social action (e.g., Prohibition, civil rights movement).
    3. Missionary sense of destiny (e.g., Manifest Destiny, Cold War)

IX. Ideas affect politics.

A. Ideas create political culture—the orientation of citizens of a state towards politics.

B. Ideas create political institutions that regulate political behavior (e.g., Federalist 10, where the Constitution molds public outcomes regardless of the character of the people or their leaders).

Suggested Lecture Topics and Class Activities

1) Which of the seven American ideas is most important to you? Why did you choose that one? Are there any ideas that need to be removed? Explain why.
2) Do the ideals of America still exist? If you were writing the American Ideal today what would you include? Why did you choose those?
3) Discuss the difference between individualism and social democracies. Should we ensure the basics—or simply protect individual rights and let every person run the great race alone?
4) Analyze the difference between political institutions and political culture.
5) Separate the class into groups. Have each group defend one of the seven American ideas as the greatest. Give examples of how it is important today as well as why it was important in the past.
6) How do American ideals affect government decisions? What happens when people disagree on the meaning of the ideals? How is the issue resolved?

Discussion Questions

1) What are the core concepts of individualism and social democracies?
2) Today, America strives towards equal opportunity. But does every citizen have an equal opportunity to influence the political process, and are they all treated the same way before the law (i.e., women and minorities)?
3) Discuss the politics of religion. Analyze why religion still plays a strong part in American lives, whereas religious conviction has waned in countries like Britain, Japan, and France as they have become wealthier.
4) Discuss three different kinds of political issues with regard to religion: 1) first, there is the question of what exactly the Constitution forbids; 2) second, religious faith often inspires people to throw themselves into political issues; 3) third, religious fervor sometimes fosters a missionary sense in American politics.
