Essay

70. Explain the relationship between rights and duties under the law.

ANSWER: A right is the capacity of a person, with the aid of the law, to require another person(s) to perform, or to refrain from performing, a certain act. A duty is the obligation the law imposes upon a person to perform, or to refrain from performing, a certain act. Duty and right are correlatives: no right can rest upon one person without a corresponding duty resting upon some other person or, in some cases, upon all other persons.

72. List the various kinds or sources of American law and discuss how they interrelate to form the system of law in the United States.

ANSWER: The sources of American law include the U.S. Constitution and the constitutions of the various states; judicial decisions in precedent-setting cases, the common law that has developed over centuries; statutes passed by Congress and by state legislatures; ordinances passed by local legislative bodies such as city councils; treaties; executive orders; and administrative rules or regulations adopted by Federal and State administrative agencies. Constitutions are the supreme law. Federal statutes and treaties are paramount to State constitutions and statutes, and State constitutions and statutes are paramount to local ordinances. Administrative rules and regulations and executive orders of the president have the force of law.

73. Discuss the various definitions of law by legal scholars and explain the relationship between law and morality and between law and justice.

ANSWER: Numerous philosophers and jurists (legal scholars) have attempted to define law. American jurists and Supreme Court Justices Oliver Wendell Holmes and Benjamin Cardozo defined law as predictions of the way a court will decide specific legal questions. On the other hand, the English jurist William Blackstone defined law as "a rule of civil conduct prescribed by the supreme power in a state, commanding what is right, and prohibiting what is wrong." Roscoe Pound, a distinguished American jurist and former dean of the Harvard Law School, described law as having multiple meanings including the legal order, the aggregate of legal precepts, and the judicial process. Law and morality can be viewed as intersecting circles, but they are not concentric. Each includes some common area, but they are not exactly the same. Law and justice are separate and distinct concepts. Without law, there can be no justice, but law is no guarantee of justice.

ANSWER: The primary function of law is to maintain stability in the social, political, and economic system while simultaneously permitting change. Other functions are protection of property, dispute resolution, facilitation of voluntary agreements, and preservation of the state. Many factors and opinions can be cited by students. In general, the complexity of today's society accounts for the increase in law, especially the statutory and administrative law.
